Colorado FCCLA's State Leadership Conference will be held virtually in 2021. With so much still unclear as to when large face-to-face gatherings will be deemed safe and when the effects of the virus will finally subside, we could not in good conscience move forward with the planning of an in-person event bringing hundreds of our members and stakeholders together from across the state.

We recognize the importance of this culminating event for our FCCLA members who have academically prepared themselves for the opportunity to participate in our competitive events program and state officer elections. Every step of the way, FCCLA advisers have dedicated countless hours to guiding and supporting our members' educational journeys, both inside and outside of the classroom.

Along with our competitive events, the conference will also include delegate sessions, officer elections and opportunities for leadership development, professional development and member/chapter recognition. Specific dates, times and details are still being finalized and will be made available soon.
